

Contents

Illustrations	ix
Preface	xi
Abbreviations	xiii
1 From Iron Fist to Somewhat Invisible Hand	1
2 China's Telecommunications History: Seeking Control While Liberalizing to Modernize	12
3 Evolution of the Telecommunications Policymaker: Bargaining Among Interests	24
4 Running the Gauntlet: Entry of New Firms into China's Telecommunications Service Market	42
5 Foreign Investors: Caught Between State and Company Demands	62
6 The Heart of Competition Policy in Telecommunications: Making Interconnection Work	81
7 Chasing the Consumer: Retail Pricing of Telecommunications in China	99
8 The Triumphant Consumer? The Growth of Voice Over Internet Protocol (VOIP) and "Little Smart" Personal Handyphone Service	116
9 Does Freeing the Communications Market Require Freeing Communications?	135
Notes	147
Bibliography	163
Index	179