

Contents

1. How Sports Fans Are Exploited 1
A Sports Fans' Manifesto, 1 The Book, in a Nutshell, 3 Sports and the Public Trust, 5 The Inefficient Monopolists, 7 Can Intervention in the "Free Market" Be Justified? 9 Tax Subsidies and Restricted Entry, 11 Ticket Prices, 13 Television Blackouts, 14 Labor Market Restraints, 17 Operating the Club: Management and Ancillary Sales, 20 Why Do Fans Put Up With It? 22
2. Diagnosis and Suggested Cure 24
Our Twofold Remedy, 24 Conflict of Interest Between the League and the Owners, 25 Recognizing the Conflict: The Commissioner and Regulation of "Integrity" Issues, 31 Beyond the Commissioner, 35 Promotion and Relegation, 41 Holdup and the Need for Enforceable Rules, 45
3. Competitive Balance 51
American Values, Foreign Values, and the Concept of "Competitive Balance," 52 Historical Origins of Competitive Balance as a Goal of Sports Leagues, 56 Is Competitive Balance Consistent with American Capitalist Values? 58 Actual Evidence Regarding the Appeal of Balanced Competitions, 59 How Our Proposals Affect Competitive Balance, 66
4. Borrowing from NASCAR: An Independent Competition Organizer 70
A Primer on the Economics of "Contest Theory," 73 NASCAR's Origins, 80 NASCAR's Development, 83 Sleeping Dogs: The Absence of NASCAR Restraints on Entry and Labor Competition, 100 The Exception That Proves the Rule: Selection of Nextel Cup Sites, 102 A Few Caveats, 104

5. Borrowing from Soccer: Entry by Merit	108
Origins of the Structure of a “Closed” League, 108
Problems with the Closed League Format, and Entry by Merit as a Solution, 110
How Entry by Merit Works in Soccer, 114
Origins of Entry by Merit in English Soccer, 119
Weighing Objections, 122
6. How a Restructured Sports League Would Work	129
Setting It Up, 131
Who Does What? 136
The Relationship Between the League and the Clubs, 137
Introducing Promotion and Relegation to the Major Leagues, 140
The Labor Market and Incentives, 144
TV and Media, 148
Ticket Prices, 149
Marketing Initiatives, 150
7. Comparing This Proposal to Other Remedies for Monopoly Power	153
The Inadequacy of Antitrust Law to Protect Sports Fans, 154
Direct Government Regulation, 158
Break Up the Monopoly Leagues, 159
Potential Need for Additional Regulation, 161
Continuing Application of Antitrust Laws to Restructured Sports Entities, 162
8. Comparing This Proposal to Other Remedies for Monopoly Power	166
The Limits to Voluntary Reform, 167
The Commission System, 169
The Commissioner as the “Coasebuster,” 170
Commissioner as Volunteer Cheerleader, 172
9. Comparing This Proposal to Other Remedies for Monopoly Power	175
The Case of the Frustrated Billionaire, 179
The Case of the Compromising Monopolist, 180
The Case of Mayors with Backbone, 181
The Case of the Fed-Up Commissioner, 182
The Case of the Imperialist Media Baron, 183
The Case of Fans Arising, 184
Notes	187
Index	211