

Contents

List of Illustrations ix

Acknowledgments xi

Introduction 1

1. Building Networks in Tropical Medicine 12

2. Creating the Cadre:
Teachers, Students, and the Culture of Tropical Medicine 44

3. From Training to Practice:
Medical Experts and Public Health in Douala and Brazzaville 73

4. Contagions and Camps:
The Sleeping Sickness Campaigns, 1901–1910 103

5. Sleeping Sickness Campaigns in German Cameroon and French Equatorial Africa 138

6. Paul Ehrlich's Colonial Connections:
Sleeping Sickness Drug Therapy Research, 1903–1914 165

7. A Legacy of Embitterment:
World War I and Its Impact on Transnational Tropical Medicine 182

Conclusion 205

Notes 211

Bibliography 251

Index 281