

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Introduction: The Two Faces of Judicial Power Keith J. Bybee	1
PART I: Context
1 Preserving Public Confidence in the Courts in an Age of Individual Rights and Public Skepticism Charles Gardner Geyh	21
2 Politicizing the Process: The New Politics of State Judicial Elections G. Alan Tarr	52
PART II: Views from the Bench
3 An Essay on Judicial Selection: A Brief History Harold See	77
4 Judicial Independence: The Courts and the Media James E. Graves, Jr.	114

5	Politics and the Confirmation Process: Thoughts on the Roberts and Alito Hearings John M. Walker, Jr.	123
6	Selecting the Judiciary: Who Should Be the Judge? Joanne F. Alper	131
	PART III: Views from the Media
7	Winners and Losers Mark Obbie	153
8	The Internet and the Judiciary: We Are All Experts Now Dahlia Lithwick	177
9	The Distance between Judges and Journalists Tom Goldstein	185
	Afterword: The State of Judicial Independence Anthony Lewis	197
	List of Contributors	203
	Cited Authorities	207
	Bibliography	211
	Index	227