

Contents

Preface: Rethinking the History of Criticism, ix

Introduction:

Habermas and the Resistance to Reading
in Early English Literary Criticism, 1

1. Radical Literacy and Radical Democracy in the 1640s, 25
2. "God forgive you Common-wealths-men":
Dryden and the Project of Restoration, 61
3. "Avoid Disputes":
The Spectator, the Market, and Criticism, 87
4. Early Eighteenth-Century Rules for Reading:
An Act of Settlement, 112
5. Hume, the Politics of Passion, and Reading, 133
6. Samuel Johnson, the Constitution, and the Exuberance of Signification, 155

Conclusion:

The Enlightenment and the Unfinished Project of Deconstruction, 181

Notes, 201

Bibliography, 217

Index, 235