

Illustrations

Figures

1. Line of succession of the Yongning chieftain	44
2. Line of succession of the Yongning chief	104
3. Correlations between geographic areas and institutionalized patterns of sexual union	120
4. The Animi sizi	124
5. Side view of a Moso house in the mountainous area	130
6. Kinship terms for generations +3 through 0	142
7. Kinship terms for generations 0 through -2, female ego	142
8. Kinship terms for generations 0 through -2, unmarried male ego	143
9. Kinship terms for generations 0 through -2, married male ego	143
10. The Eyi yidu	153
11. The Boru yidu	158
12. History of the Gapa yidu up to 1949	164
13. The Nimata sizi	170
14. Kinship relations of the Gapa group of households	194
15. Development of the Gapa group of households	196
16. Reunification of the Wala yidu	202
17. Reunification of the Ana Boru yidu	204
18. Plan view of yimi or the main building	214
19. Uniform pattern of the traditional Moso residential structure	218
20. Nata Dajia's household in 1988	239

Maps

- |  |     |
|--|-----|
| 1. Location of Moso area in Southwest China  | xvi |
| 2. Northern Ningling County, Yunnan Province | 2   |

Table

- |                                 |     |
|---------------------------------|-----|
| 1. The Moso kinship terminology | 140 |
|---------------------------------|-----|