

FIGURES AND TABLES

FIGURES

1.1	Causes of party-system collapse: overall structure of the argument	5
1.2	Voters and party-system collapse: refining the argument	12
2.1	Traditional party presidential vote share, 1962–1998	54
4.1	Identification with the traditional parties in Venezuela	92
4.2	Identification with the traditional parties in Peru	93
4.3	Venezuelan party identification by ideology in 1983 and 1993	96
5.1	Venezuelans' ideologies, 1998	115
5.2	Peruvians' ideologies, 1990	115
5.3	Argentines' ideologies, 1996	116
6.1	Affect and vote choice	157

TABLES

3.1.	Economic performance of Latin American countries, 1980–2000	71
3.2.	Economic models of Latin American elections, 1980–2001	77

3.3. The economy and satisfaction with household financial situations	82
3.4. The economy and anxiety about the future	83
3.5. Anxiety and satisfaction with the political system	84
4.1. Corruption in Latin American countries, 1983–2001	99
4.2. 1993 model of Venezuelan traditional party identification	103
4.3. 1992 model of Peruvian party identification	106
4.4. Party-branded patronage	110
5.1. Survey and official vote shares in Venezuela's 1993 elections	125
5.2. 1993 model of Venezuelan presidential vote choice	125
5.3. Survey vote shares in Venezuela's 1998 elections	131
5.4. 1998 model of Venezuelan presidential vote choice	132
5.5. 1989 model of Lima municipal vote choice	138
6.1. Effects of anger treatment on outsider voting, as mediated through attitudes toward risk	160
6.2. Situations and predicted emotional responses	162
7.1. Average ideological distance between local leaders and the national party	186
7.2. Summary of party organizational traits	192
7.3. Regression of local/national ideological distance on party organizational traits	196
7.4. Regression of local ideological flexibility on party organizational traits	197
8.1. Citizens' views of parties and elections	223
8.2. Citizens' views of government's role in resolving problems	223
8.3. Conditional differences between collapse and non-collapse countries on efficacy	233
8.4. Efficacy in Venezuela, 1983–2003	235
8.5. Conditional differences between Chavistas and non-Chavistas on efficacy	239
8.6. Conditional differences between anti-Chavistas and non-Chavistas on efficacy	240