

Contents

Contributors	vii
Foreword
David H. Barlow	xiii
Preface
Alan Harwood	xvii
Acknowledgments	xxi
1. Introduction:
Panic Disorder in Cross-Cultural and Historical Perspective
Byron J. Good and Devon E. Hinton	1
PART I THEORETICAL APPROACHES TO THE STUDY OF PANIC DISORDER
2. Theoretical Perspectives on the Cross-Cultural Study of Panic Disorder
Laurence J. Kirmayer and Caminee Blake	31
3. A Medical Anthropology of Panic Sensations:
Ten Analytic Perspectives
Devon E. Hinton and Byron J. Good	57

PART II HISTORICAL PERSPECTIVES ON WESTERN PANIC

4. The Irritable Heart Syndrome in the American Civil War
Robert Kugelmann 85
5. Twentieth-Century Theories of Panic in the United States:
 From Cardiac Vulnerability to Catastrophic Cognitions
Devon E. Hinton and Susan D. Hinton 113

PART III CULTURAL VARIATIONS IN PANIC DISORDER

6. Comparative Phenomenology of ‘Ataques de Nervios,’
 Panic Attacks, and Panic Disorder
Roberto Lewis-Fernández, Peter J. Guarnaccia, Igda E. Martínez, Ester Salmán, Andrew B. Schmidt, and Michael Liebowitz 135
7. Dizziness and Panic in China:
 Organ and Ontological Disequilibrium
Lawrence Park and Devon E. Hinton 157
8. Gendered Panic in Southern Thailand:
 ‘Lom’ (“Wind”) Illness and ‘Wuup’ (“Upsurge”) Illness
Pichet Udomratn and Devon E. Hinton 183
9. ‘Ihahamuka,’ a Rwandan Syndrome of Response to the Genocide:
 Blocked Flow, Spirit Assault, and Shortness of Breath
Athanase Hagengimana and Devon E. Hinton 205
10. Panic Illness in Tibetan Refugees
Eric Jacobson 230
- Index 263