

Contents

| | |
|---|-----|
| Acknowledgments | vii |
| Introduction Christopher Kinsey and Malcolm Hugh Patterson | 1 |
| PART I: The Nature of Contractor Support in Future US Military Operations | |
| 1 Overview of American Government Expeditionary Operations Utilizing Private Contractors Robert Mandel | 13 |
| 2 Attitudes on the Ground: What Soldiers Think about Civilian Contractors Ryan Kelty and Darcy Schnack | 36 |
| 3 Looking Beyond Iraq: Contractors in US Global Activities Renée de Nevers | 60 |
| PART II: Reconstruction and Stabilization Operations: A Market Growth Area | |
| 4 The Elephant in the Room William J. Flavin | 85 |

| | | |
|---|---|-----|
| 5 | Sharing the Same Space: The Evolving Relationship between US NGOs, Battlefield Contractors, and US Armed Forces Samuel A. Worthington | 112 |
| 6 | PMSCs and Risk in Counterinsurgency Warfare Kateri Carmola | 134 |
| PART III: Legal Aspects of Future US Operations | | |
| 7 | Contractors and the Law Geoffrey S. Corn | 157 |
| 8 | Contractors' Wars and the Commission on Wartime Contracting Allison Stanger | 184 |
| 9 | Private Contractors, Public Consequences: The Need for an Effective Criminal Justice Framework David E. Price | 205 |
| PART IV: US Administrative Structures Required to Sustain Contractor Operations | | |
| 10 | How to Decide When a Contractor Source Is Better to Use Than a Government Source Frank Camm | 233 |
| 11 | Reforming the US Approach to Stabilization and Reconstruction Operations Stuart W. Bowen, Jr. | 255 |
| 12 | Contractors Supporting Military Operations: Many Challenges Remain Jacques S. Gansler and William Lucyshyn | 278 |
| | Conclusion Christopher Kinsey and Malcolm Hugh Patterson | 297 |
| | Contributors | 323 |
| | Index | 327 |