

Contents

Preface	xiv
A Note on Conventions	xvii
Flashback	xviii
Abbreviations	xix
Part I. Introduction and Theory
1 Northeast Asia in Global Perspective	3
Why Not a Broader Asian Calculus?, 5
Why Not Just China?, 7
Northeast Asian Fusion, 8
Rising Interdependence in Northeast Asia Puts Pressure on the “Organization Gap,” 13
The Waning of Constraints in History and Geopolitics, 16
Deepening Trilateral Policy Dialogue, 19
Prevailing Academic Pessimism about Northeast Asian Regionalism, 22
An Alternative View, 23
Our Contribution, 25
2 Theories of Asian Institutional Development: Changing Context and Critical Junctures	27
The Explanatory Gap in Current Literature, 28
Regionalism in Comparative Perspective, 32
Cross-Regional Commonalities, 35
The Critical-Juncture Framework, 38
The Critical-Juncture Framework: Theoretical Background, 39
Critical Junctures and Regional Institution-Building, 42
Critical Juncture: The Model Specified, 45
Why Critical Junctures Matter in Northeast Asia, 49
Critical Junctures and Regional Evolution: An Agenda for Research, 51
Part II. Historical Context: Critical Junctures
3 The Organization Gap in Historical Perspective: War in Korea and the First Critical Juncture	57
Before the Korean Conflict: Still Fluid Patterns in Regional Relations, 60
War in Korea: The Emergence of Critical Juncture, 63
Added Complications

- in Japan, 66 The Urgency and Complexity of Juncture Decision, 67 Toward the “San Francisco System,” 69 The Korean War, Cross-Straits Confrontation, and the PRC’s Economic Isolation, 71 Why the “Second-Best” Has Proven So Enduring, 73 In Conclusion, 78
- 4 Overcoming the Organization Gap: Crises and Critical Junctures (1994–2008) 80
 Pre-Crisis Regionalism in Asia, 82 Edging Closer to Crisis, 85 Reaping the Whirlwind: The Coming of Critical Juncture, 88 The Road to Chiang Mai, 94 The 2008 Financial Crisis as Critical Juncture, 95
- Part III. Regional Development
- 5 Visions of a More Cohesive Regional Future 105
 Optimistic Japan-Centric Origins, 106 The Tortured Transwar Interlude, 108 Chinese Ambivalence, 108 From EAEC to AFC: Visions of Asia in the Early Post-Cold War Era, 110 Re-envisioning Northeast Asia after 1997, 111 Contending Asianist Visions, 118 Japan’s “Aimaisa”: An Ambivalence in Clearly Bridging East and West, 119 China’s Dilemma: How to Exert Rising Power, 120 South Korea’s Choice: Power Balancer or Institutional Broker in Northeast Asia? 124 Other Regional Actors, 125 In Conclusion, 126
- 6 A Deepening Web of Regional Connectedness 129
 Deepening Trade Relations: A Key Basis for Networks, 130 Deepening Intra-sectoral Linkages, 134 Emerging Production Networks in Northeast Asia, 135 How Northeast Asian Production Networks Operate, 137 The Geographical Dimension: Production Clusters, 140 A Deepening Taiwanese Role, 142 Japanese and Korean Production Networks in Greater China, 143 Policy Networks, 144 Emerging Institutional Manifestations, 146 Track II Innovations: The Boao and Jeju Forums, 149 Transnational Epistemic Communities: Bringing Regionalist Dreams to Earth, 151 Military Exchanges and Dialogue: Transcending a Complex History, 153 Emerging Subnational Networks in Northeast Asia: Quiet Transnational Integration, 155 In Conclusion, 157
- Part IV. National Transformation
- 7 The Transformation of China’s Regional Policies 163
Wei Ji [“Crisis”] and the Transformation of China’s Regional Policies, 164 The Dual Drivers of China’s Regionalist Formation, 168 In Conclusion, 181
- 8 Catalysts: Korea and ASEAN in the Making of Northeast Asia 184
 The Rise and Fall of ASEAN as Early Catalyst, 186 Korea’s Natural Catalytical Role, 186 How Far Korea Has Come: A Historical Perspective, 188 Toward the Making of Northeast Asia: Deepening Korean Domestic Incentives, 190 Korea as Catalyst: Why the Policy Shift? 193 Five Driving Forces, 196 In Conclusion, 157

9	Japan's Dilemma and the Making of Northeast Asia	204
	Japan's Tangled Continental Ties, 205 Fukuzawa's Dilemma Revisited, 208 A Mixed History: Japan and Region-Building, 210 Regionalism and the Emerging Profile of Japanese Domestic Political Interests, 212 Bureaucracy and Regionalism, 215 Country-Specific Interests, 217 The Key Role of Japanese Business, 220 Opponents of Closer Regional Ties, 221 In Conclusion, 222
10	The United States and Northeast Asian Regionalism	225
	Northeast Asia's Importance to the United States, 226 America's Early Absence from Northeast Asia, 229 Key Traits of the Classic San Francisco System, 231 America's Changing Geopolitical Stakes, 232 America's Own Transformation, 236 Deepening Corporate Stakes in Stable Trans-Pacific Relations, 241 The Overall Profile of American Interests and Northeast Asia's Future, 243 In Conclusion, 245
	In Conclusion
11	Summing Up	251
	Northeast Asia's Quiet Yet Fateful Transformation, 252 The Political Dimension, 256 What Is New in This Analysis, 258 Implications for the Broader World, 265
	Notes	273
	Bibliography	313
	Index	325