

Tables and Figures

Tables

1.1	The Northeast Asian Region in Comparative Perspective	5
2.1	Critical Juncture vis-à-vis Historical Institutionalism	44
3.1	The Second-Best San Francisco System: Preference Structure amid the Korean War	70
3.2	Critical Junctures as a Catalyst for Regional Organization in East Asia (1950–Present)	74
7.1	Northeast Asian Investments' Share in Major Growth Centers in China	180
9.1	Changing Transwar Patterns of Interdependence in the Northeast Asian Political Economy	209

Figures

1.1	The “Shanghai Circle”: Economic Heart of Northeast Asia	4
1.2	Northeast Asia and ASEAN in Comparative Geoeconomic Perspective	6
1.3	The U.S. Dollar's Decline against Northeast Asian Currencies (2001–10)	16
1.4	The Evolution of Northeast Asian Trilateral Dialogue (1998–2009)	20
2.1	Northeast Asia's High Concentration of Critical Junctures	50
3.1	Korean Peninsula during the Korean War	64
4.1	Northeast Asia in Broader Regional Context	86

4.2	East Asia's Falling Currencies, 1995-98	89
4.3	Regional Foreign Exchange Reserve Pool under the Chiang Mai Framework, 2008	99
5.1	The Grand Design of Northeast Asia	114
6.1	Declining Export Dependence on the U.S. Market	131
6.2	Rising Intra-regional Trade within Northeast Asia: Trends in South Korea, Japan, and China	132
6.3	Taiwan and Hong Kong's Rising Northeast Asia Reliance	133
6.4	Growth of Korean Investment in China since the Asian Financial Crisis	136
6.5	Transnational Information Technology Clusters in China	141
P4.1	Framework of Regionalist Decision-making	161
7.1	Foreign Visitors to China, 1995-2007	173
7.2	GDP Growth Disparity between Eastern and Northeastern China, 1978 vs. 2008	176
8.1	Korea's Strategic Location	187
8.2	Korea's Trade with China, Japan, and the U.S.	194
9.1	Shifting Japanese Public Sentiments toward China and Korea	220
10.1	Geographical Concentration of Asian Americans (2000)	237
10.2	America's Exports to Asia	238
10.3	Northeast Asian Population in the United States	239
10.4	Foreign Students and Visiting Scholars in the United States (2005)	240
10.5	America's Declining Unionization Rate (1970-2008)	241