

Contents

List of Illustrations	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
Introduction: Immigrant Incorporation in Rural New Destinations	1
Part I Geography
1. “I’m a Person Who Likes Tranquility a Lot”: Southern Region and Rural Space in the Hispanic Newcomer Experience	23
Part II Economy
2. “The Americans Give You the Opportunity to Work and Grow”: Stability and Short-Distance Mobility in the New Rural Southern Economy	53
3. “It’s Not Like If You Work in a Big Place and You Can Move up the Ladder”: Insecurity and Stagnation in the Old Rural Southern Economy	83

Part III Race and Citizenship

4. “The Blacks Don’t Like Us, and It’s Worse Than with the Whites”: Class Structure, Black Population Size, and the Threat of Social Leapfrogging 113
5. “The White Americans Have Always Been Very Friendly”: Discrimination, Racial Expectations, and Moral Hierarchies in the Black-White Binary 142

Part IV Politics and Institutions

6. “We’re Here to Serve Our Residents”: Service-Inspired Responsiveness to Hispanic Newcomers in Education and Health 179
7. “If I Didn’t Trust You Before, I Don’t Even Want to See You Now”: Regulatory Ambivalence in Law Enforcement and the Courts 209

Conclusion:
Promises and Pitfalls in the Rural American South 231

Appendix: Terminology and Methodology 269

Notes 281

References 315

Index 363