

Contents

	Introduction: Medicine as a Form of “Ordinary Shopping”	1
Part I From Occupation to Nation
Chapter 1	Medicine and Its Fragments, 1945–1948	19
Chapter 2	Mobilizing New Models of Public Health and Medicine, 1945–1948	46
Chapter 3	From Minneapolis to Seoul: Transforming Surgery, Clinical Practice, and Professional Identity at Seoul National University Hospital, 1954–1968	72
Part II Meet the State
Chapter 4	Family Planning and Nation Building in South Korea, 1961 through the mid-1970s	109
Chapter 5	Taking Samples for the Nation: Historicizing the Biological Sample in the South Korean Antiparasite Campaigns, 1969–1995	145
Chapter 6	Reconstructing the Face: “Asian Blepharoplasty,” Professional Expertise, and the Development of a Plastic Surgery Market, 1954 to the present	177

Conclusion: Challenging Developmental Expectations	213
Notes	229
Bibliography	255
Index	271