

Illustrations

FIGURES

1.1. Ancient and eighteenth-century Andean technologies (1732)	18
1.2. The Inca as a classical polity (1737)	19
1.3. Illustration of Cornelius de Pauw's critical method (1770)	28
1.4. Eighteenth-century map of the Amazon Basin (1745)	31
2.1. Franciscan evangelical activities in early colonial Mexico (1579)	91
2.2. Mnemonic images in Amerindian languages (1579)	93
2.3. Mexican and Egyptian deities (1626)	98
2.4. Seventeenth-century copies of pages of the Codex Mendoza (1652–54)	100
2.5. Four examples of primitive scripts (1738–42)	108
2.6. The evolution of alphabetic writing (1738–42)	110
2.7. The number 21,314 in a quipu (1750)	117
2.8. Random selection from the Vienna Codex (1777)	121
2.9. The “solar ages” of Mexica chronology (1810)	126
2.10. Mexica history of migrations (Mapa Sigüenza) (1699–1700)	128
3.1. Two eighteenth-century Spanish documents	182
4.1. Tomb of St. Thomas in Mylapore (1670s)	222
4.2. Two illustrations from Gemelli Careri (1699–1700)	228
4.3. Colonial calendrical wheel (1699–1700)	229
4.4. Calendrical wheels and historical annals (1778)	232
4.5. Three early modern versions of the great temple of Tenochtitlan	239
4.6. Three early modern versions of Mesoamerican temples	240
4.7. Two examples of Francisco Clavijero's use of Amerindian sources (1780–81)	242
4.8. Illustration of Francisco Clavijero's critical method (1780–81)	244
4.9. Two eighteenth-century genealogies of Amerindian and Spanish American rulers	247

Illustrations

4.10.	The pyramid of Papantla (1804)	256
4.11.	The ruins of Xochicalco (1804)	257
4.12.	Franciscan views of civil and ecclesiastical hierarchies (1579)	264
5.1.	Coatlicue and Tlaloc as examples of Mexican “art” and “writing” in the eighteenth century	269
5.2.	The Solar Stone (1792)	270
5.3.	Two eighteenth-century versions of the order of months in the Nahua annual cycle	275
5.4.	Three early modern versions of the order of days in a Nahua month	276
5.5.	Page of Tonalamatl Aubin	278
5.6.	Three stones found in Mexico City between 1790 and 1792	289
5.7.	Twelve Aztec monoliths in Mexico City ca. 1790	290
5.8.	Four entries in two Mexica annals	294
5.9.	Pictograms and logograms in three Mexica codices	296
5.10.	Mesoamerican writing in two early modern sources	298
5.11.	The foundation of Tenochtitlan according to three early modern sources	313
5.12.	Our Lady of Guadalupe as a magical seal (1746)	315
5.13.	The Roman origins of Palenque (1780s)	324
5.14.	Classical myths in two of Palenque’s images (1780s)	332
5.15.	Myths and historical allegory in Mayan remains (1780s)	337

PLATES

1. Syllabic quipu (1750)
2. Syllabic quipu (1750)
3. Colonial calendrical wheel, number four
4. Colonial calendrical wheel, number five
5. Colonial calendrical wheel, number one
6. Colonial calendrical wheel, number six
7. Page from the colonial edition of Matrícula de tributos
8. Page from a facsimile of Matrícula de tributos
9. The Fall of Man, from the Codex Borgia
10. “Sacrificial Lamb,” from the Codex Borgia
11. The Flood, from the Codex Borgia
12. The founding of Tenochtitlan, from the Codex Mendoza

Plates follow page 252.