

Contents

Foreword
	Barbara Adam	ix
Contributors		xiii
Introduction
	Robert Hassan and Ronald E. Purser	1
PART 1: Time in the Network Society
1	New Temporal Perspectives in the “High-Speed Society” Carmen Leccardi	25
2	Network Time Robert Hassan	37
3	Speed = Distance / Time: Chronotopographies of Action Mike Crang	62
4	Protocols and the Irreducible Traces of Embodiment: The Viterbi Algorithm and the Mosaic of Machine Time Adrian Mackenzie	89

	PART 2: Digital Time: Temporal Dimensions of Media and Culture
5	Truth at Twelve Thousand Frames per Second: The Matrix and Time-Image Cinema Darren Tofts	109
6	The Fallen Present: Time in the Mix Andrew Murphie	122
7	Stacking and Continuity: On Temporal Regimes in Popular Culture Thomas Hylland Eriksen	141
	PART 3: Temporal Presence
8	Indifference of the Networked Presence: On Time Management of the Self Geert Lovink	161
9	The Presence of Others: Network Experience as an Antidote to the Subjectivity of Time Jack Petranker	173
10	CyberLack David R. Loy	195
	PART 4: Time in the Network Economy
11	Time Robbers, Time Rebels: Limits to Fast Capital Ben Agger	219
12	Finding Time and Place for Trust in ICT Network Organizations Hans Rämö	235
13	The Clock-Time Paradox: Time Regimes in the Network Society Ida H. J. Sabelis	255
	Index	279