

Contents

Acknowledgments	iii
1 Introduction: Stanley Cavell and the Claim to Community Andrew Norris	I
2 Wittgenstein and Cavell: Anthropology, Skepticism, and Politics Sandra Laugier	19
3 Bringing Truth Home: Mill, Wittgenstein, Cavell, and Moral Perfectionism Pietergiorgio Donatelli	38
4 Telling the Dancer from the Dance: On the Relevance of the Ordinary for Political Thought Joseph Lima and Tracy B. Strong	58
5 Political Revisions: Stanley Cavell and Political Philosophy Andrew Norris	80
6 Perfectionism Without Perfection: Cavell, Montaigne, and the Conditions of Morals and Politics Richard Flathman	98

7	Perfectionism, Parrhesia, and the Care of the Self: Foucault and Cavell on Ethics and Politics	128
	David Owen
8	Stanley Cavell and the Limits of Appreciation	156
	Ted Cohen
9	Cavell and Political Romanticism	164
	Espen Hammer
10	Stanley Cavell and the Pursuits of Happiness	186
	Hans Sluga
11	Cordelia's Calculus: Love and Loneliness in Cavell's Reading of Lear	212
	Thomas L. Dumm
12	Aesthetics and Receptivity: Kant, Nietzsche, Cavell, and Astaire	236
	Robert Gooding-Williams
13	The Incessance and the Absence of the Political	263
	Stanley Cavell
	Notes	319
	Contributors	375
	Index	379