

CONTRIBUTORS

Ammiel Alcalay is a poet, translator, critic, and Professor of Comparative Literature at Queens College and the CUNY Graduate Center. His books include After Jews and Arabs; Memories of Our Future; from the warring factions; and, most recently, a selection of essays, A Little History (Beyond Baroque, 2005).

Lori A. Allen is a Ph.D. candidate in the University of Chicago's Department of Anthropology. Her dissertation, "Suffering Through a Nationalist Uprising: Violence, Victimization, and Human Rights in Palestinian Politics," is an ethnography of the Al-Aqsa Intifada.

Marwan Barghouti was a principal leader of the second intifada and head of the Fatah tanzim. He was captured by Israel and accused of directing the suicide bombings of the al-Aqsa Martyrs' Brigades, a charge he vehemently denied. In 2004 he was convicted of the murder of five people and received a life sentence.

Joel Beinin is Professor of Middle East History at Stanford University and an editor of Middle East Report. His latest book is Workers and Peasants in the Modern Middle East (Cambridge University Press, 2001).

Robert Blecher is Program Director, Scenario Planning Program at the Strategic Assessments Initiative, and Visiting Scholar at the Center for Human Rights, University of Iowa. His essay in this volume won Middle East Report's Philip Shehadi Award for New Writers in 2002.

Elliott Colla is Assistant Professor of Comparative Literature at Brown University and a member of the editorial committee of Middle East Report.

Catherine Cook is a writer and researcher based in Ramallah. She is co-author of Stolen Youth: The Politics of Israel's Detention of Palestinian Children (Pluto Press, 2004) and former senior analyst and media coordinator at the Middle East Research

- and Information Project. From 1999 to October 2002, she worked with Defense for Children International/Palestine Section in Ramallah.
- Jonathan Cook is a journalist based in Israel who contributes to The Guardian, Le Monde Diplomatique, the International Herald Tribune, Al-Ahram Weekly, and the Beirut Daily Star.
- Richard Falk is Albert G. Milbank Professor of International Law and Practice Emeritus at Princeton University and, since 2001, Visiting Professor, Global Studies, University of California at Santa Barbara. He is the author of Human Rights Horizons (Microsoft Reader eBooks, 2000) and The Great Terror War (Interlink, 2003).
- Khaled Furani was born in Haifa and completed his Ph.D. in Cultural Anthropology at the Graduate Center, CUNY. His work deals with modernity and secularism in Palestinian and Arabic poetry.
- Rita Giacaman is Associate Professor and Research and Program Coordinator at the Institute of Community and Public Health, Birzeit University.
- Lisa Hajjar is Associate Professor in the Law and Society Program at the University of California, Santa Barbara, and is the chair of the editorial committee of Middle East Report.
- Jeff Halper is a professor of anthropology and the Coordinator of the Israeli Committee against House Demolitions.
- Rema Hammami is Associate Professor of Anthropology at Birzeit University and directs the M.A. program in Gender and Women's Studies. She is a Contributing Editor of Middle East Report and the former director of the Women's Affairs Center in Gaza, a women's rights NGO.
- Sari Hanafi, a sociologist, is director of Shaml, the Palestinian Refugee and Diaspora Center. His article does not necessarily express the position of Shaml.
- Adam Hanieh is former research coordinator at Defense for Children International/Palestine Section and co-author with Catherine Cook and Adah Kay of Stolen Youth: The Politics of Israel's Detention of Palestinian Children (Pluto Press, 2004).
- Islah Jad is Assistant Professor of Gender and Political Science at Birzeit University and the author of Women and Politics: A Status Report (Women's Studies Institute, Birzeit University, 2000) and numerous articles on the Palestinian women's movement.
- Penny Johnson is Associate Researcher at the Institute of Women's Studies at Birzeit University and Director of the Palestine Office of the Palestinian American Research Center.
- Rela Mazali is an Israeli writer, feminist peace activist, and a founder of New Profile, a group challenging the militarization of Israeli society and opposing the occupation.

- Emma C. Murphy is Senior Lecturer and Associate Dean at the University of Durham, UK. Her publications include Israel: Challenges to Identity, Democracy, and the State, with Clive Jones (Routledge, 2002) and numerous articles on Palestinian and Israeli affairs.
- Issam Nassar is a historian on the staff of the Institute of Jerusalem Studies, the Ramallah-based affiliate of the Institute for Palestine Studies. His books include Hanna Safieh: A Man and His Camera, Photographs of Palestine, 1927–1967 (Turbo, 1999).
- Ilan Pappé is Senior Lecturer in the Department of Politics at the University of Haifa, Israel. His books include The Making of the Arab-Israeli Conflict, 1947–1949; The Israel-Palestine Question; and most recently, A History of Modern Palestine: One Land, Two Peoples (Cambridge University Press, 2004).
- Yoav Peled is Professor of Political Science at Tel Aviv University, specializing in Israeli politics. His book, Being Israeli: The Dynamics of Multiple Citizenship (Cambridge University Press, 2002), co-authored with Gershon Shafir, received the 2002 Albert Hourani award from the Middle East Studies Association.
- Mouin Rabbani is a Contributing Editor of Middle East Report and a Middle East analyst based in Amman.
- Shira Robinson is Assistant Professor of Middle East History at the University of Iowa. Her publications include “Local Struggle, National Struggle: Palestinian Responses to the Kafr Qasim Massacre and its Aftermath, 1956–1966” (International Journal of Middle East Studies, 2003). She has worked with the office of the UN High Commissioner for Refugees in Jerusalem and has been an active member of Ta’ayush (Arab-Jewish Partnership).
- Sara Roy is Senior Research Scholar at the Center for Middle Eastern Studies, Harvard University.
- Rosemary Sayigh is an anthropologist and oral historian living in Lebanon. She is the author of Too Many Enemies: The Palestinian Experience in Lebanon (Zed Books, 1994) and is currently working on a Palestinian women’s voice archive to be published on the Internet.
- Charmaine Seitz is a journalist who has written about the Palestinian-Israeli conflict for more than ten years.
- Adam Shatz is the literary editor of The Nation and has reported from Lebanon and Algeria for the New York Review of Books. He is also the editor of Prophets Outcast: A Century of Dissident Jewish Writing about Zionism and Israel (Nation Books, 2004).
- Rebecca L. Stein is Assistant Professor of Cultural Anthropology at Duke University and a Contributing Editor of Middle East Report. She is the co-editor, with Ted Swedenburg, of Palestine, Israel, and the Politics of Popular Culture (Duke University Press, 2005), and author of Itinerant Israel (Duke University Press, forthcoming), a study of the relationship between tourism and settler-nationalism in Israel.

Gary Sussman is Director of Research and Program Development at the Harold Har-tog School of Government and Public Policy at Tel Aviv University. He received his Ph.D. in Government and History from the London School of Economics and Political Science. His dissertation analyzes the politics of the 1992 (whites only) referendum in South Africa's transition to democracy.

Salim Tamari is Director of the Institute of Jerusalem Studies and editor of its journal, Jerusalem Quarterly File. He is also Professor of Sociology at Birzeit University, a Contributing Editor of Middle East Report, and Senior Researcher for the Refugee Working Group Technical Committee and a delegate to (and former coordinator of) the Palestinian team in the multilateral peace negotiations established by the Oslo accords.

David Tartakover is a celebrated graphic designer and the 2002 Israel Prize laureate for design, Israel's most prestigious graphic arts award.

Graham Usher is a journalist who has worked in Palestine and Israel for over a decade writing for Middle East International, Al-Ahram Weekly, and other publications. His first book, Palestine in Crisis: The Struggle for Peace and Political Independence after Oslo (Pluto, 1995) was published in association with the Middle East Research and Information Project.

Sharif Waked was born in Haifa in 1964 and now lives and works in Canada. His art has been widely exhibited in Spain, France, the United Kingdom, Germany, Poland, Italy, Lebanon, the United Arab Emirates, and Palestine.

Oren Yiftachel is Senior Lecturer in Political Geography and Chair of the Department of Geography and Environmental Development at Ben-Gurion University of the Negev, Beersheba, Israel. He is the author of Planning a Mixed Region in Israel: The Political Geography of Arab-Jewish Relations in the Galilee (Avebury, 1992)